We hear that A. W. Lambert (O.R.), one of the representatives of Cambridge in the Quarter-of-a-Mile race against Oxford last year, will not be able, on account of ill health, to run this year.

We notice the publication of a new periodical—The Atlas, or Public Schools' Chronicle,—based, we are informed, on Constitutional principles, and "devoting its principal attention to the important question of the day—Education." It reports weekly at considerable length on one of the Public Schools.

The Eton Chronicle tells us that the beagles have had two capital runs, one on January 28th, the other on February 2nd, the latter being the best run of the season.—The practice of the Eight has been much thrown back by the floods, but has begun at last.—We are glad to hear that the last barrier between Collegers and Oppidians has been broken down by the admission of Collegers to the "Boats." In consequence of this a new eight-oar has been put on.—The Eton Society has held two debates, one on the Ballot, the introduction of which was negatived, the other on Compulsory Education, against which there was a good majority.

The Oxford Undergraduates' Journal is interesting to all who favour Oxford Athletics; it also gives some information about the boat, and Notices about the different Public Schools.

Our American correspondents at Racine College have again sent over their publication, in which there are some good articles. We miss, however, the account of Athletics which appears in all our Public School papers.

We learn from a recent number of the Eton Chronicle that, of all the Public-Schools, next to Eton, Rugby sends up most new members to the present Parliament.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We cannot be answerable for the opinions of our correspondents.

Contributions will be received at the Advertiser Office, or at Mr. Pepperday's under cover to the "Editor of the Meteor."

To the Editor of the Meteor.

SIR,—The following letter, with a collection of Ferns, was received by Mr. Wilson, who requested me to send a copy to the Meteor.

Dunedin, Otago, New Zealand,
 5th October, 1868.

DEAR SIR,—I find that the Rugby boys are paying considerable attention to Botany. As a pupil of an Old Rugbeian, the Rev. F. C. Simmons, I venture to offer for your School Library a collection of the Ferns of this province, with which I this year obtained the prize at the High School of Otago. I have forwarded it by the Panama boat.

I remain, Sir, yours truly,

D. REID.

P.S.—I shall be glad to hear of their safe arrival.

To J. M. Wilson, Esq., Rugby.

Thinking it might certainly be interesting to publish,

I remain, yours,

JAMES H. DAVIES.

SCHOOL MAGAZINES.

To the Editor of the Meteor.

SIR,—I was glad to see in your last number some remarks on the subject of School Magazines, or, to speak more strictly, on the subject of the Meteor; and I trust that, as one who has had some experience in the double capacity of contributor and editor, you will allow me to say a few words on that perplexing subject.

One point, I suppose, may be dismissed without further discussion, namely, whether or not it be advisable to make a School Magazine a vehicle for School news. No one will deny that it is interesting to past and present Rugbeians to possess a record of School events. No one will refuse to share in Horace's regret that many brave men should have died before Agamemnon and been lost to memory because they lacked the sacred bard. A chronicle of the School cricket-matches has indeed been published, but alas! without an account of the matches,
